Our Gang Comedy

"Do it over!" This was Fallsie's war cry during rehearsals of that amusing production, a mystery comedy "Adventure Incorporated", presented by the seniors on December 2.

Raymon Harman played Stanley Marchmont, a famous aviator, who opened a unique business of "Adventure Incorporated". Pat McCoy, as Helen Flagg, accepted Marchmont's proposal to head his "Romance" department. (She did, remember?) His first adventure-seeking customers were the society gals, Olivia and Octavia Vandersnoot, played by Frieda Schoeneman and Miriam Pond. They mistook Eugene Pontius and Paul Oyer who played E. Barrington Barr and P. J. Flagler, co-owners of the building, for thugs.

William Perl and Dick Fisher, alias Horse-face Charles and Louie the Lug, were searching for Kitty Dalton, a nightclub dancer, known to us as Barbara Miller, to keep her from squealing on their boss. Kitty implored Stanley to help her. With the help of Helen and Marchmont, Kitty swapped clothes with an office boy. Donnabel Loveless, as Miss Smith, a precise school teacher closed the first act with her plea for a discreet adventure.

Charlie and Louie began detecting and clowning in act two. While Stanley and Helen were planning Kitty's escape and the Vandersnoot's adventure, Marjorie Cox and Irieta Grush as Annie Erickson and Mrs. Murphy, the Vandersnoot's cook and laundress, entered to seek adventure. Annie had become an heiress. Meanwhile Charlie and Louie had mistaken Miss Smith for the dancer and had seized her. Helen shouted, "What are you doing to her?"

"The same thing that we're going to do with you, because you're too darn nosey!" This retort ended the second act on a high note.

The stage was dark as the third act began; women in the inner office were screaming for help. Flagler and Barr came to their rescue only to be suspected of locking them in. Mrs. Murphy's umbrella was the chief weapon of offense.

Kitty came back from the airport because she hated to leave Helen and Miss Smith in the clutches of the villains.

Marchmont assigned each one a duty to perform in capturing the thugs. Meanwhile Louie and Charlie captured Kitty and were preparing to throw her, Miss Smith and Helen down the elevator shaft. Entering to find Kitty, Marchmont was slugged by the thugs. As the thugs were ready to escape, Marchmont came to and captured the criminals by the clever device of using umbrellas as forty-fives. Raymon, although bound, did it all himself; just ask the cast.

After this Mr. Flagler changed his mind about Marchmont, and Helen and Stanley formed both a life and a business partnership.

The players were directed by Miss Falls, assisted by Miss Potterf and Faye Kindy. Bob Parkison, Don Stute and William Perl set up the stage under Mr. Green's supervision.

Our School Days In Writin'

With the click of the camera and a "Look pretty, please," the production of the "Annie" began. The 1942 class, under the direction of Miss Falls, vowed the well-worn phrase, "This will be the best one yet." The staff was headed by B. Tarr with B. Montgomery as rewrite editor.

The picture men, R. Harman, D. Deuter, E. Pontius, and V. Stoller began early in October to take snaps for the book. That did not finish their job, however; panels had to be measured and pictures placed just right. A lot of figuring was required, but they did it.

The subscription campaign started October 6 and ended November 7. The seniors set their goal at 200 but succeeded in selling 220. A. Wise and R. Harman sold 18 books each.

"School days" was chosen as the theme for the book, and then the work really began. Many nights saw the staff working in Room 5, taking time out only to satisfy the ravenous appetites developed from an afternoon and evening of school routine and Anlibrum work.

M. Cox, B. Miller, B. Mutton and E. Smelser, the senior class editors, listened in on conversations to get the favorite phrases used by their classmates. The girls worked joyously and vigorously in writing up, to perfection, this section for the 72 graduates. A. Wise typed the enrollment list used for checking of spelling.

The underclass write-ups were written by V. MacGregor. Activities were covered by B. Millhouse, R. Felmlee, B. Perl, and E. Pontius.

G. A. A. and boys' sports were submitted by M. Pond, G. A. A. editor; and by the sports editors, P. Oyer and L. Henry.

B. Mason, class treasurer, was the bookkeeper for this year. L. Meyer acted as advertising manager, with B. Parkison, R. McQueen, D. Fisher, R. Harman, D. Schmidt and H. Shaefer soliciting the city for ads. The boys' goal was $100; they turned in $140.

Short work was made of tedious preparation of the dummy by the typists: D. Loveless, L. Kraft, B. Mason and P. McCoy.

Poems and general aid and mirth were rendered by that old handy man, William "Shakespeare" Perl.

Those linoleum block division pages, the "school days" borders and the "kid" drawings on the senior pages were done by L. Hegerfeld.

Since the Anlibrum does not have an office of its own, the journalism class room, the teachers' rest room, room 5, the stage, the outer office and the Advance room became the laboratory for clicking, cutting and pasting, typing and copyreading, checking and mailing and for the chattering that adds zest to journalism.

Promenadin' With a Maiden

"It looks like a pretty nice day today; let's play a game." Oh! those groans! Mr. Snider may have enjoyed those games, but the juniors did not.

Oh, the class officers! Well, Howard Shaefer was president; Bill Dueter, vice-president; Ray Mutton, treasurer; and Hope Miller, secretary. The Promster's sponsor was Mrs. Stanley.

This year the juniors concentrated on one big party, the junior prom. Their chief workers were: decoration committee—L. Henry, chairman; M. Seibold, M. Lunz, H. Keiser, D. Schmidt, J. Turner, R. Mutton, J. Paxson, R. M. Beck, and V. Stoller; orchestra committee—H. Miller, chairman; P. Ehrman, H. Simerman, W. Stein; invitation committee—R. Johnson, chairman; H. Larimore, W. Hardisty, H. Hanke, D. Tschannen; refreshment committee—B. Millhouse, chairman; H. Conahan, J. Bracht, P. Hildebrandt.

Ruth Mary Beck was Prom Queen and her six attendants were Mable Leonard, Margaret Lunz, La Vonne Anson, Hope Miller, Donna Foltz and Jean Clapesattle. Mrs. Clapesattle gave a dinner for the Queen and the attendants before the Prom.

The Promsters and their guests got in the groove to Carey Baker's tunes. Queen Ruth Mary and prexy Howard led the grand march.

Jeepers! Was the prom scene ever pretty! The stage represented the porch of a southern plantation home. Under the balcony was an old-fashioned garden. The side walls were covered with painted panels and drapery. Above was a starry blue ceiling.

"Oh, boy! Refreshments!" Oh, sure, they had something sweet and cooling at intermission. The refreshment committee decided that ice cream, cookies and punch would really hit the spot.

Gee! What a school year—history games, shortage of paper for prom decorations, Red Cross drives, magazine selling and no spring vacation! Well, anyway, the prom was something to remember us by.

With Books and Slates

Yes, we passed beginning readin', writin' and 'rithmetic and almost took up flying. The sophomores elected Bob Rice, president; Dick Beard, vice-president; Joan Carriger, secretary; and Sylvia Gilliff, treasurer; and as usual, Miss Auman was sponsor. Do you know that "sophomore" means wise fool? Well, it does.

Those history tests were awful. No sophomore could remember when the Petition of Rights was signed. We sat and groaned glancing about at our equally unfortunate neighbors. The grades on one test were so low we had to have a retake. Believe it or not, the grades were pretty good. Mind now, pretty good.

Geometry! Oh! That geometry—formal proofs, construction, theorems, postulates and definitions! Gee, what a mess! I mean, the papers of the "wise fools".

Readin', oops, literature wasn't so bad except for book reviews and oral reports. Now those really got us down. Your knees shock, and you got either red or white when you stood before the class.

Latin was a pushover. But who can figure out who did the pushing? Was it the Latini discipuli or the Latina lingua?

For our social activity, we voted to have a skating party at Bells. January 31 was the only evening open. So—on the decided date we did skate. Oh, there's a rhyme.

No sophomores had any trouble about missing the bus and such, as we did last year. But did we ever have fun teasing the freshmen! Now we know why we were teased so much last year.

Nearly every sophomore had a Defense Stamp Book and thrust it under someone's nose and exclaimed, "Look what I got." Then the other person thrust his stamp book under the first person's nose; and they walked off together, for they had a common share in America. It was a great life. We, the class of '44 wound up the year by singing "School days, school days, dear old golden rule days, Latin, hist'ry, geometry, too . . . "

Elmhurst, Here We Are!

"Freshie! Freshie!" Everyone exclaimed this the first day of school.

Gee! Algebra wasn't half bad, nor was literature but oh! that English. What is a predicate noun and how can you tell a verb phrase? It was so complicated.

Mr. Logan was our home room teacher, of course; and Edwin Hall, president; Ed. Jackson, vice-president; Ruth Bastian, secretary; and Doris Coleman was treasurer.

A skating party was voted as the class activity and was supposed to be held January 30, but the sophomores had one booked for January 31 so it was postponed. Who could stand to skate two nights in succession? Especially, after all that trouble of picking one's self up. It gets really tiresome, doesn't it?

Harold Roe was accidentally killed during Christmas vacation. Harold had many friends of all ages.

A bunch of new freshmen came in at the half. Gee, high school's a funny thing! Everyone is allowed to talk when he wants to in the hall.

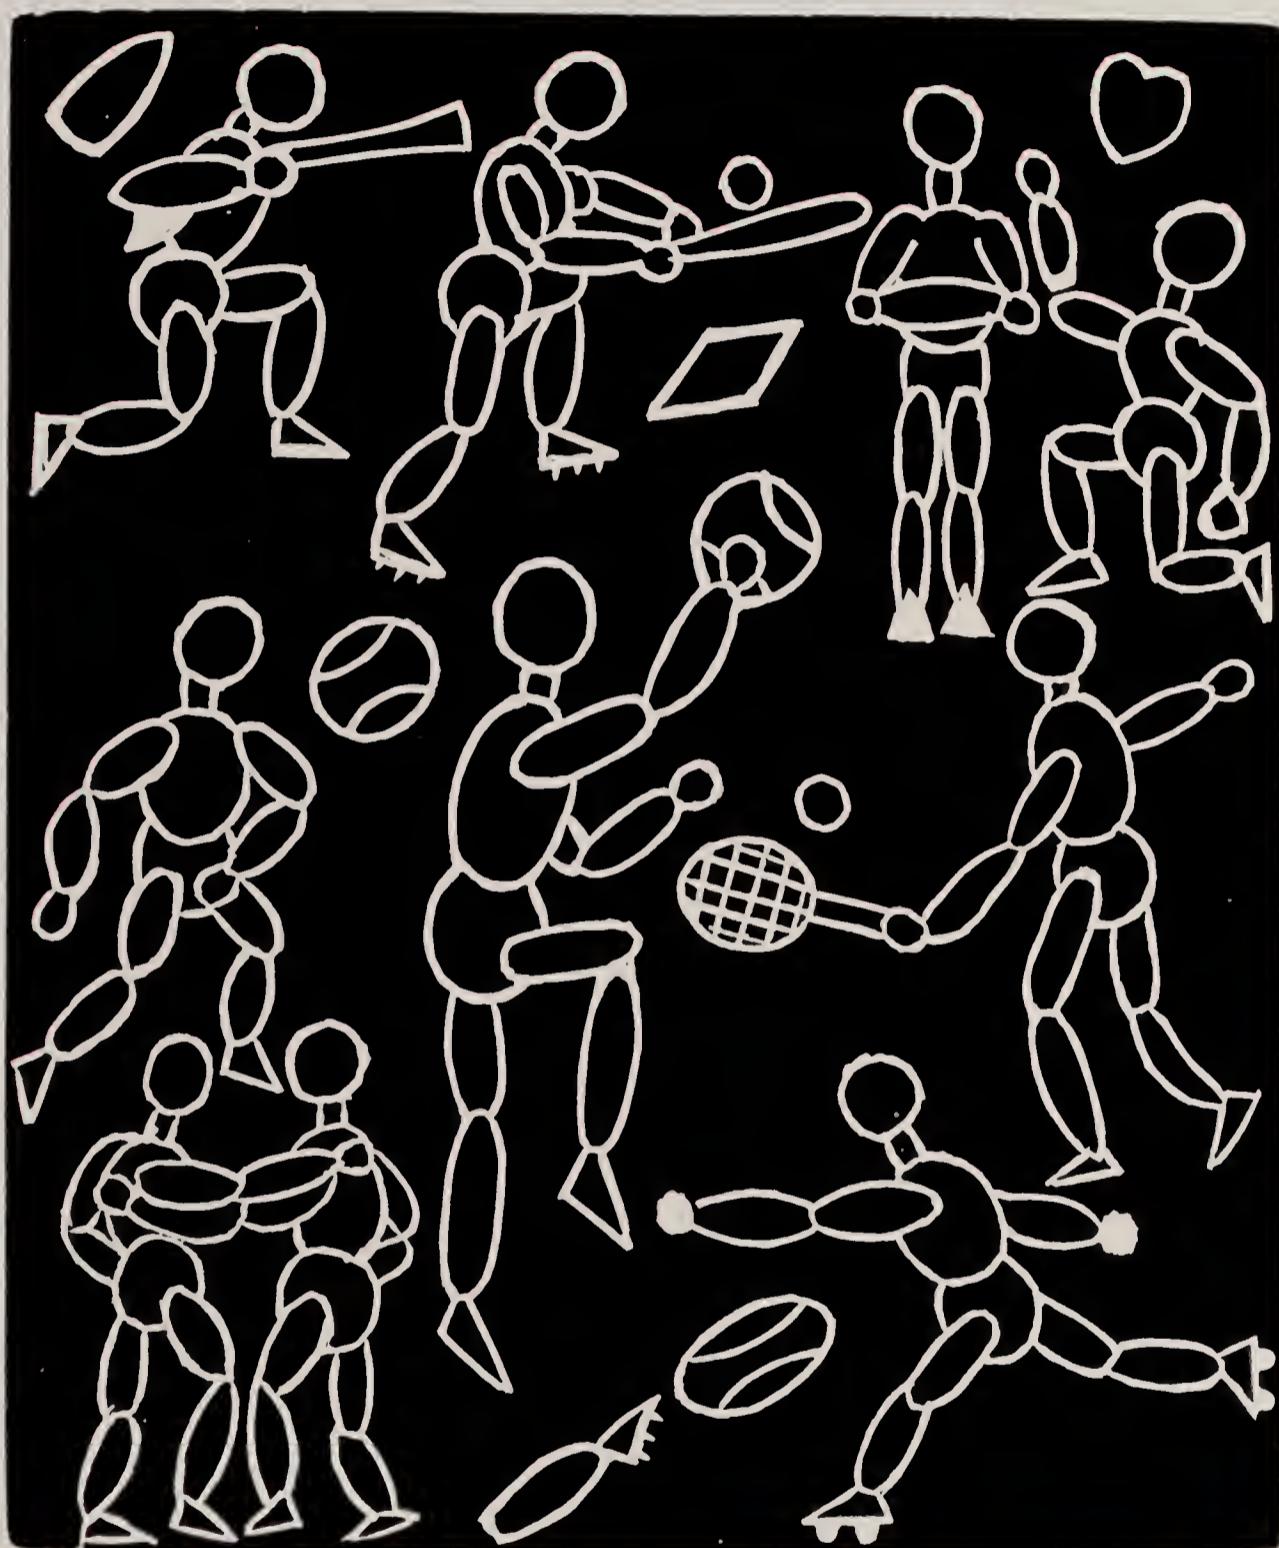

Just duck into the first lunch line you see is the motto over here. Most of the freshies had hamburgers for dinner.

What a time! Running after your bus makes you seem such a fool; and one's not that until he's a sophomore and even then he's a wise one. Well, live and learn.

Everyone had a chance to join a club, and there was such a variety so everyone was satisfied. We freshies say, "Here's to old Elmhurst High, school without peer."

When We Were

Jerry Whitbeck

Jerry had the task of taking good care of the equipment for the team and did a fine job of it.

Bill Deuter

Ht. 5-11½; Wt. 162; Junior

Don Hower

Ht. 5-9; Wt. 170; Senior
"Bud" was the high-scorer of the Trojan team this year, just missing the "200" mark by three points. Playing his second year as varsity forward, he was chosen on the all-county first team.

Art Gutmann

Ht. 5-10; Wt. 155; Senior
This was Art's first year on the varsity but he did exceptionally well. He was Baker's substitute and saw much action. He was a good rebounder.

Howard Shaefer

Ht. 5-11; Wt. 145; Junior
Howard saw a lot of action. He handled the ball well and scored 46 points. He will be back next year.

Ray Mutton

Ht. 6-0; Wt. 160; Junior
Captain Ray Mutton has played two years on the varsity. He was a great rebounder and made all kinds of shots. He scored 176 points and made 10 points or more in seven different games. His great all-around play will be of peerless help to next year's team.

Coach Waveland Snider

"Snitz" deserves a lot of the credit for the Trojans' success this year. This was his fourth and most successful year as Trojan mentor.

Bob Rice

Ht. 5-10; Wt. 168; Sophomore Southpaw Bob saw lots of action this year. He is a fine all-around player and will probably star the next two years.

Dick Capin

Ht. 5-8½; Wt. 135; Sophomore Dick is a good ball-handler and can score when it's needed. He scored the winning basket against Leo. He has two more years to play.

Bob Parkison

Ht. 5-6; Wt. 135; Senior Playing his first year on the first five, Bob came through in great style and merited a place on the all-county first team. He was a great ball-hawk and a good defensive man.

John Baker

Ht. 6-2; Wt. 180; Senior Johnny was the center this year and added much height to the Trojan squad. He was the most consistent on set shots and received a berth on the all-county second team.

Dick Beard

Ht. 5-9; Wt. 156; Sophomore He could be called "dead-eye Dick" because of his great accuracy on every kind of shot. He has two more years in which to play on the varsity.

The Elmhurst basketball varsity experienced a very successful season under Coach "Snitz" Snider's tutelage. They built up a ten-game winning streak which was broken in the finals of the county tourney when they lost a heart-breaking overtime battle to Hoagland. This seemed to take the heart out of them for they failed to hit their stride the rest of the season. However, their record of 15 wins and 8 losses was a great improvement; and the boys and Mr. Snider deserve a lot of credit. Snider taught them a zone defense; the boys maniuplated it so well that the Trojans had a defensive average of 25.8, the best in the county. Their offensive average was 31.7 so they averaged 5.9 points per game more than their opponents. The Trojans were not an accurate shooting club, but they hit an average of 18.7% while their opponents hit 18.1% of their shots.

Snider's half-time pep talks seemed to be a great inspiration, for the boys outscored their opponents by the ratio of 7 to 5 in the third period; and 4 to 3 for the entire last half, while in the first half the ratio was 7 to 6.

Reserves Win 9; Lose 9

The reserves ended the season with a 50-50 record, winning 9 and losing a like number. After bowing to Hoagland, 13 to 10, the Trojammers beat Leo 12 to 9, drubbed Jefferson Center and Arcola 27 to 18 and 26 to 7. Then came the relapse; Woodburn won 22 to 16, Monroeville won 21 to 12, and Huntertown won 25 to 14. Leo continued the rout winning 25 to 23; New Haven did likewise with a 26 to 18 victory. After being dropped by Lafayette Central 22 to 19, they sprang back with a 13 to 8 win over Decatur Catholic. Here came another drubbing for Arcola 24 to 10. Central Catholic pulled the props in a 22 to 18 overtime. Another hot streak and four opponents bit the dust: Ossian, 34 to 12; Woodburn, 20 to 16; Hoagland, 20 to 19; and Columbia City, 18 to 14. Harlan ended the season with an 18 to 13 win.

The ace scorers were D. Johnson and F. Lehman; each scored 71 points. W. Bradtmiller, close behind, piled up 66. Stemen and Milhouse contributed 51 and 38 points, respectively, to their cause.

Sluggers Keep Top Ranking

Since there was no tourney this year, our county champion softball team did not have to defend its crown. However, they played three games and made a very good showing. Scores: Elmhurst 10, Arcola 7; Elmhurst 21, Arcola 8; Elmhurst 5, Huntertown 7.

Elmhurst totals: AB, 95; R, 36; H, 33; Pct., .347; errors, 16. Opponents' totals: AB, 94; R, 22; H, 23; Pct., .245; errors 12.

Rah! Yea! Seniors!

The seniors made a clean sweep of the class tourney this year, both the senior boys and girls coming out on top. The upset of the tourney came when the freshman boys stopped the juniors cold, 12 to 8. Meanwhile the seniors trounced the sophomores by a 21 to 6 score. Then in the finals the senior Redskin boys warped the freshies 29 to 15, after leading 26 to 8 at the end of the third period. Paul Oyer, a senior led the boys in scoring, by pouring 20 points through the hoop. A freshman, Dick Schmidt, was next high with 9 point. The boys' all-star class team included W. Snyder, P. Oyer, B. Poitras, R. Schmidt, and D. Swank.

Trojanettes Have Full Program

The G. A. A., under the sponsorship of Mrs. Stanley and the leadership of Frieda Schoeneman and her assistants, Margaret Lunz, vice-president; Hope Miller, secretary; LaVonne Anson, organized sports leader; and Barbara Miller, unorganized sports, had a full and busy year of sports and activities.

During the early fall season they played softball; and when the weather no longer permitted their playing out-of-doors, they used up their excess energy by playing volley ball in the gym.

The girls sponsored a skating party at Bells' Rink, November 8. B. Mutton was chairman of the publicity committee who consisted of P. DeBolt, P. Gusler, B. Keever, H. Hanke, A. Tarr, and M. Kreigh. H. Miller was chairman of the ticket committee.

After the Christmas vacation, class teams were organized; and they began playing basketball on Mondays and Fridays during the noon period.

Active G. A. A. members; three plaque girls. Softball team; basketeers.

Senior Gals Win Journey

The annual class tournament was held the first week in March and four good teams came out to compete. The seniors won the tourney by first sweeping the freshmen off their feet in a game which ended 25-6 and then by beating the sophomores, who won their first game over the Juniors. In the final game, the seniors led the sophomores all the way in a hard fought battle. However, the sophomores never gave up until the last whistle blew and the score showed 27-21 with the seniors on top.

After the basketball season was over, the G. A. A. played ring tennis: and when warm weather came again, they played softball.

They took a hike in the early part of May and ended up over at Foster Park where they had a weiner and marshmallow roast.

The annual state play day was held in the middle of May and all the officers and plaque girls attended. B. Miller was the only one to receive her plaque that day, since B. Kahlenbeck and M. Pond had received theirs at play day last year.

Goal-Bull's Eye

"What was that, Mr. Eickhoff? Ninety-eight! How do you do it, Betty?" The girls practiced meets on Tuesday and the boys on Monday and Wednesday. Everyone squinted one eye, peeped through the sight with the other and tried, oh! so hard, to hit the bull's eye. When the tener was slugged, they got so excited that they made a one or a three the next time. At least it taught them a lesson, didn't it?

"Gee, everything is blurred!" Mr. Eickhoff laughed and told them to shut their eyes awhile. So they did a blackout and finally recovered enough to make a comeback with an eight. The club had eighty-nine members this year; twenty-seven girls and sixty-two boys. The officers were: president, J. Whitbeck; vice-president, W. Perl; secretary-treasurer, O. Slater.

The team's first four usually consisted of O. Slater, C. Cable, J. Whitbeck, and R. Johnson. For fifth man it could be either H. Simerman or R. McQueen. The team now ranks in class A which is higher than last year.

Lettermen this year were: C. Cable, B. Bassett, D. Hoehn, and R. McQueen.

The annual wiener bake was held on May eighth and a good time was had by all.

Helpers of Uncle Sam

Chicken, ham, rabbit, cake, pie, cookies,—stop! That reminds me of the Industrial Arts club's potluck pre-Thanksgiving dinner. On that day, all tools were idle at lunch time except maybe a saw or two if the cake was a little tough.

All trips to industries were cancelled again this year. Because of defense work no visitors were allowed.

We still had all our classes in the old school. However, on Lincoln's birthday work was started on the new building. Those of us who do not graduate look forward to better and larger shop rooms. In time, the members of the club will aid Uncle Sam in all-out war production.

B. Parkison was our chief; D. Kiracofe, vice-chief; R. Mutton, secretary-treasurer. Oh, yes, Mr. Jewell was our chief manager.

Our Motto—Preparation

"Remember Pearl Harbor!" This was one of the cries of the affirmative team this year to prove their point that never again should we be unprepared. The question under debate was, "Resolved: That, as a permanent policy, every able-bodied male citizen in the United States should be required to have one year of full-time military training before attaining the present draft age." The negative argued that we shouldn't militarize our youth after this war is over because it will be entirely unnecessary. They added that the United States has never been defeated in a war, no matter how unprepared we were.

The affirmative team who debated this question was composed of D. Schmidt and J. Turner. Margaret Cox and P. Oyer debated on the negative side. J. Sarasien was the alternate on the affirmative team. E. Pontius and D. Loveless were also on the negative squad, but both withdrew before the debating season got under way.

The season was started when several of the debaters went to Purdue, December 5 and 6 for a debate conference. At a college debate between Purdue and Wisconsin, they received many interesting pointers on the question. P. Oyer served as a senator in the student legislature and E. Pontius and J. Turner served as representatives. The members entered speech contests at North Side, South Side, and Central in addition to their debate work.

The Elmhurst Forum Club is a member of the National Forensic League, the Indiana State Debate League, and the Northeastern Indiana Debating Conference. Many debates were held with other schools. These included: Concordia, North Side, Huntertown, Columbia City, Jefferson Township, Huntington, Lafayette Central, New Albany, Hammond, Terre Haute and Peru. However, the judges didn't seem to agree with us (or we with them) and so we came out on the losing side in most of these debates.

But "all work and no play makes Jim a dull boy," so the Forum Club, sponsored by Miss Potterf, their coach, took time out from their duties to skate and dance. On September 26 they sponsored the first and most successful skating party of the whole year. The Junior Forum Club, organized for underclassmen, sponsored a tea dance on February 19; and it also was a great success.

The junior club chose N. Christoff to lead their meetings. C. Oyer was elected to keep their records, and R. J. Wilkie to take care of the money. Other members of the club were: J. Kussmaul, J. McKinney, L. Watkins, B. Chiddister, L. Ford, N. Eiche, D. Mason, J. Neff, and D. Thurber. The "ossifurs" of the senior club were: D. Schmidt, president; J. Turner, vice-president; and M. Cox, secretary.

Artists Learn Their Three R's

One bunch o' kids that didn't get the jug this year for drawin' "pitchers" was the Art club. The club's twenty-four members elected L. Hegerfeld, B. Parker and B. Beltz as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Mrs. Sells was their sponsor.

Their readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic was taught to the tune of the paint brush. The fifteen members of the first year class started with fundamentals. They worked on theory and practice in drawing, perspective, forms of Roman capitals, color theory, elements of design and the theory of applied design. Nine students who advanced to the second year learned more in design and art appreciation, undertook writing of uncial and half-uncial alphabets, and the theory and practice of color. This year there was one student in third year. Illustration, interior decoration, portraits, still life and painting were the features of this course. The one student of fourth year had the privilege of doing specialized work, which helped prepare for a special phase of art.

On the social side the club aimed to have one activity each month. Some of these were solely for club members; but those open to the public were a skating party, November 18; a tea dance, February 5; and another skating party, March 20.

The proceeds from these activities were used to purchase two magazines monthly for the club. These magazines served to broaden the students' knowledge and to increase their appreciation.

The Art club had some outside work to do. They were asked by many clubs to make blackboard announcements. Those linoleum-block cuts for the Advance were done by L. Hegerfeld, fourth year student, who also did that particular work in this volume of "Annie". Lettering of basketball court cards and other miscellaneous signs were handled by this group.

So the school helped the Art club, and the Art club helped the school.

Hip, Hip, Hooray! A Holiday!

Verlin Stoller came through with the astounding total of thirty-eight prize points and became undisputed champion in the 1941 magazine sales campaign. Miriam Pond and Elizabeth Staynoff gave him plenty of competition with twenty-six points each. Verlin's perseverance was rewarded for he got his name engraved on the silver magazine campaign cup. The campaign was under the sponsorship of Mr. Eickhoff. Home room 6 under the guidance of Miss Simon, challenged the other home rooms to be the first to have a 100 per cent participation in sales. Needless to say, home room 6 won and was given a party for their undying effort.

The seniors came out on top as per usual with a total subscription sale of $400.25. The juniors came second with $330.25; the sophomores third with $283.75; the freshmen came in last with $159. The school made more than $400 which was used to finance assemblies throughout the year, for the student salesmen prizes and parties, or for other school needs.

The lucky salesmen who had earned five prize points witnessed a soft ball game one gloomy day in October. It was a rousing game; but alas for the Yanks, the Dodgers were a bit better and nosed them out with a score of 12-3 in favor of the Dodgers. The umpires were none other than Mrs. Stanley and Mr. Snider, physical ed instructors.

Members of the Yanks were: H. Morse, J. Pond, B. Kinerk, V. Stoller, J. Kussmaul, R. Schmidt, O. Slater, B. Stein, D. Capin, P. Deahl, D. Schmidt, L. Henry (coach); while J. Clausen, D. Fisher, B. Deuter, J. Fogwell, K. Diss, E. Pontius, J. Whitbeck, D. Kiracofe, R. Harman (coach) were the Dodgers.

Several interesting and exciting assembly programs were presented as a result of the magazine campaign. September 23—Payne Jubilee singers sang a number of negro spirituals. October 20—The Dewillo Concert company presented a program featuring the violin, piano and concertina grand. Gloria Linari, a beautiful sixteen year old songstress, who has entered the movies, appeared with them. November 12—Many astonishing and unbelievable experiments were demonstrated by Walt Everman. January 12—Kilty Trumpeters, four girls, played solo and ensemble music. February 6—A fascinating and mysterious story of Tibet was told by Fred Hardenbrook. February 11—George Lyons, soloist with Vallee, Whiteman, and Hylton, played his $2,500 harp. April 9—Guy Green, who resembles Abe Lincoln, portrayed the "Life of Abraham Lincoln".

On the opposite page, are the magazine co-workers. Yes, critics, we said it was a gloomy day.

Singing Along With the Seasons

"Happy Days are Here Again," sang the Glee Club one hot September day. Their voices didn't blend very well; in fact they were all a little off key. What could you expect the first month!

During October they finally decided to organize and elected as their officers: president, Frieda Schoeneman; vice-president, Don Johnson; secretary-treasurer, Betty Millhouse; and librarian, Dorothy Vogts.

Next came who-what-and-when. The members decided to have girls' chorus every Monday and Tuesday, boys' on Wednesday, all freshmen on Thursday, and mixed chorus on Friday. Shirley Monce was appointed pianist.

Singing along with the seasons, Christmas Carols led the list, especially the ones that they sang at the concert they presented December 19 for the school. Taffy apples were given to all who went to the club's tea dance December 18.

After recuperating from Christmas and New Year's festivities, the warblers swung out with the "Chattanooga Choo Choo".

With the Junior-Senior Prom preparations in full swing, the songsters didn't get together very much during February and March; however, they did sing "Stout Hearted Men," "We Did It Before," and other current popular songs.

"April Showers Bring May Flowers." The club sponsor, Mrs. Stanley, was sorry to report that this year no one would receive a pin for being in the Glee Club for four years. Too many showers, I guess!

The last month, May, brought the last semester activity which was a general party enjoyed by all the members. After singing at Baccalaureate, the Glee Club wrote "finis" on their slates.

Good Deed Dotties!

"What a pretty valentine I got from my peanut sister!" Such comments were heard after the Home Ec. Club's peanut sister exchange. What is a peanut sister? We-ell, you put your name, address, home room and birth date in a peanut shell. Then a drawing is held. After that, each girl remembers her peanut sister with gifts at Christmas, Valentine's Day, Easter and on her birthday. At the spring banquet, you find out who was so thoughtful of you all year.

At the September meeting, 14 new members were initiated, making a total of 50 members for the club this past year. In the campaign for election of officers, Donna Foltz emerged as president, Agnes Forschner as first vice-president, Margaret Christle as second vice-president, Mable Leonard as secretary, Donnabel Loveless as treasurer, and Betty Mason, student adviser.

Their theme this year was Fashions and Travel. At each of their meetings, something along this line was studied. One activity of particular interest was the showing of a movie reel of fashions at a meeting February 17.

They had their annual Christmas party on December 20 at the school. Each member was entitled to bring one guest. The gift exchange, Christmas tree, games and refreshments were enjoyed and helped start off Christmas vacation with a feeling of festivity. Add to this list of activities the skating party held February 7. Another feature of importance last year was the annual late spring tea and fashion show put on by the Home Ec. Club and classes for their mothers.

At the banquet held April 1, Miss Simon, the club sponsor, presented Agnes Forschner, Betty Mason, Ruth Mitchell, and Dorothy Lopshire with silver thimbles. These silver thimbles were given as rewards for a four-year membership. The officers for the club during 1942-1943 were elected at the March meeting and installed at the banquet.

Our College of Musical Knowledge

Bom-Bom! Bom-Bom! Bom! Bom! Bom-Bom!

Mr. Fryback helped the band get the time, all right!

Don Stute was chosen as president; Margaret Cox, librarian; and Hope Miller as secretary-treasurer. Don won the position of assistant director, and Pat McCoy that of student director.

Well, nothing much happened the first semester except the band played for the home basketball games, marched in the Armistice Day parade, and played for the basketball game, in which the Zollner Pistons met Akron, Ohio, at the North Side gym on December 12. They received an invitation to play at another such game on January 27 also.

But gee! The second semester! The band played at the County Basketball Tourney at New Haven on January 23 and 24. More to come! Our band was asked to play at the ceremony awarding the U. S. Bureau of Ordnance Flag and the Navy "E" to the Magnavox Company, at the Shrine Theater.

School concerts were presented on February 8 and April 19. A lot of Trojan Mozarts entered individual solo and ensemble numbers at the district contest at Waterloo, March 28. The first place winners advanced to the state solo contest at Butler, April 11.

Well, at last, the fun was over for the year and so the band closed the term by playing at commencement and by having a weiner bake at Dick Fisher's club house. They had tooted their way through another year with a lot of oomph.

Struttin' Their Stuff

Every forty-minute period found the twirlers practicing their routine on the stage. To break the monotony, the girls occasionally peeked through the curtains at the band. Kid stuff? You bet!

Sylvia Gilliff has had two years experience in twirling; Joan Carriger, two years; Ruth Mary Beck, two years; and Jean Clapesattle, one year. Both Connie Kumfer and Barbara Miller have been twirling for four years. Five of the twirlers have gone to contests and ranked high in either the state or national. This year, Barbara Keever and Phyllis McCoy represented Elmhurst in the junior high contest at Waterloo. Connie Kumfer and Barbara Miller represented Elmhurst in the senior high contest.

Dick Deuter won the contest for drum major. Since October, Dick has strutted his stuff at the head of the band.

Elmhurst now has three flags for the color guard to carry at the head of the parade. This year Mr. Hayes presented the school with an Indiana flag. Two sophomore flag bearers, Mila Haag and Virginia Cox, led the red and gray marching band.

Marjorettes: B. Miller, C. Kumfer, J. Carriger; Drum Major: D. Deuter; Majorettes: J. Clapesattle, R. M. Beck, S. Gilliff; Flag bearers: M. Haag and V. Cox.

Typists Trip and Treat

"F-r-f———j-u-j."

"What in the world is that?"

"Oh, it's just the beginning typing classes learning the letters of a typewriter", replied the Commercial Club president, Betty Tarr. Standing beside her were the other club officers: vice-president, Hope Miller; secretary, Margaret Lunz; treasurer, Betty Mason; and Miss Matilda Auman, sponsor.

With Elmhurst as a starting point, the club held their annual treasure hunt and weiner bake on the school grounds, September 19. Weiners, marshmallows, and root beer were served. Despite a few rips and tears, everyone had fun.

In the middle of October, the club took a trip to the Lincoln Life Insurance Company. The same gang took time off from the study of bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand to skate twice, on November 28 and April 4. Zeryl Cowan also entertained the crowd at her home during the Christmas holidays. A gift exchange, games, dancing, and refreshments were enjoyed by all. (Oh! those quarter presents!)

Early in the second semester the group was shown a movie stressing how to prepare for a job and how to get a job.

To wind up the activities of the year, the Commercial Club chose a patriotic theme for its annual banquet held April 23. Bob Allen's orchestra furnished the rollicking tunes for the barn dancing and la congoing that followed. A "Man On The Street" program, looking into the future of the club members, was put on by those giggle-guarantee maestros, Dick Fisher and William Perl. Bronze, silver, and gold pins were awarded to those students who typed 40, 55, or 60 words a minute with not more than five errors.

Regiment Red and Gray, Company E

Time marches on! Along with this march comes the Elmhurst Company of E's. At the ball games, in the halls and everywhere, the red sweaters are distinguishable.

Ray Mutton was re-elected president of the E club. However he had new assistants who were B. Deuter, vice-president and J. Baker, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Snider was official sponsor of the E's. His co-workers were Miss Potterf, Mrs. Stanley, Mr. Eickhoff and Mr. Fryback.

Elmhurst basketball pins were sold by the club. Proceeds of this and the class tourney made possible the Letterman's dance, March 28. All present and past E's jived at this session.

Aides of National Defense

As well as being a couple of kids, 135 of us joined a special service group, the Red Cross club.

We made a penny drive for Red Cross membership, contributed our old Christmas cards for reconstruction to be given next year to the men in service, delivered Christmas baskets to some unfortunate families, held a penny drive in home rooms for tuberculosis seals, and in the words of our sponsor, Miss Wimmer, "furthered any drive put on for National Defense by the Red Cross organization."

At our organization meeting last September, we elected E. Pontius, president; M. Lunz, vice-president; and J. Pond, secretary-treasurer. We delegated J. Carriger, M. Beck, L. Henry and Don Schmidt to represent our club at the meetings of the County Council. Don was elected president of the County Council.

Mixing a little pleasure with our work, we held a tea dance. That little bit of recreation took care of the first semester. We entertained ourselves and our guests in the middle of the second semester with an after-supper dance.

Well, kids, that wasn't a bad way to spend our spare time and dimes was it?

Phy-Chem Hit Parade

Number one on the parade of activities sponsored by the Phy-Chem Club was the trip to the meeting of the Indiana Junior Academy of Science at De Pauw University. Both the physics and chemistry classes were invited to take experiments. The physics class took experiments about surface tension. Electrolysis of sodium chloride and the displacement of metals from salt solution were the two experiments taken by the chemistry class. The club stayed all night at Greencastle where the meeting was held. James Sarasien, Elmhurst's candidate, was elected president for the coming year. The members had a good time on the bus, on the campus, down town in Greencastle and at the meetings and exhibits.

Number two hit was a Thanksgiving tea dance. All enjoyed themselves as they burned up the dance floor to the tune of some of the hottest records on celluloid. Taffy apples were passed out to all the rug-cutting kids.

The annual funfest on March 6 took place number three. Barbara Miller, Miriam Pond, Irieta Grush, Ruth Felmlee, Lynn Henry and Bob Meyer put their heads together to plan a swanky party. It was a combination dance and floor show with refreshments and attendance prizes on the side. Tables were arranged around the gym to imitate a race track. Here a floor show took place while Bob Allen's orchestra played on the stage. Later all the guests glided to "Sailboat To The Sky".

Several trips, including one to the sewage disposal plant, were made to industries for the further education of the members in the practical application of physics and chemistry.

Forty-three members, 17 girls and 26 boys, made up the hit parade of Phy-Chem this year. Bronze pins were awarded to all deserving members. Bob Parkison called meetings to order with Jimmy Turner as his assistant. Frieda Schoeneman kept the roll and took charge of all the money the club earned. Miss Wimmer, chemistry instructor, and Mr. Logan, physics instructor, sponsored the activities.

Through the Mill With 'Vance

Chancing to poke your head in Room 5 any night the Advance stayed, you would have found 8 individuals, members of the main editorial staff, working industriously to put out the paper you read every month for the past year. If you had remained to eavesdrop a little, you would have heard questions flying everywhere. Someone usually said, "What happened to that article?" or "I told her to write it up!" or "Will someone type this, please?"

Betty Tarr and Paul Oyer, both members of the editorial staff for four years, were announced by Miss McComb, faculty adviser, as co-editors, for 1941-1942. Main helpers have been Margaret Cox, news editor; Lois Schneider, chief copyreader; Jeremy Alden and Lynn Henry, headline writers; Hope Miller, feature editor; and Eugene Pontius, sports editor. News stories were assigned to reporters by the news editors, feature stories were assigned by the feature editor, and the same was done with sports writeups. Then the stories went through the "mill." There were many of them; they had to be rearranged, rewritten, censored, corrected, copyread, typed, rechecked, headlined. After this long drawn out process, they were sent to the printer's. The galley proofs, as they are called, came back from the printer's and were proofread and sent back to the printer's to be printed.

Mr. Logan, faculty adviser for the business staff, and Lester Meyer, business manager, with their helpers took care of the bookkeeping and soliciting ads for the Advance.

Fourteen journalists attended the annual convention of the Indiana High School Press Association at Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana last October 23, 24, and 25.

Highlights of the convention were specialized classes for instruction and advice in newspaper and yearbook editing, a campaign and election of officers for the next year and entertainment programs sponsored by various groups of the Franklin College student body.

On May 1 the annual Advance banquet was held. Lois Schneider was general chairman and prodded all the other committee members into making the banquet a success. Each member of the editorial and business staffs was eligible to attend. The Advance staff alumni were invited to come along and have fun, too. Outstanding members of this year's staff received Quill and Scroll and Advance awards.
